

First Kansas, Next the World!

The Bureau of Consumer Health's Food Protection and Consumer Safety (FPCS) Program's Hand Washing and Food Safety Educational Campaigns are reaching other states and countries! The program recently received a request from the U.S. Embassy in Brussels, Belgium to use their Turkey Safety Tips handout in a November edition of a nonprofit newsletter.

In October, the FPCS Program sent 500 bathroom hand washing stickers, a part of their 'Did You Wash, 'Em?' campaign, to be used in each bathroom at NASA. Lastly, the program's 'Focus on Food Safety' interactive CD-ROM is available upon request by email. In the past four months, it has been sent to 19 states as well as Namibia, Africa and Cairo, Egypt.